I really enjoyed this Tøyenseminar, and thought the quality of everyone's papers and feedback was really high. I personally received incredibly helpful feedback, and also learned a lot from listening and learning from the feedback others got as well!

Regarding the question "Did the seminar provide you with new knowledge on how to develop research questions" - I cannot remember that as a key focus of the seminar, but the feedback did help me untangle what would be the main focus of my paper, so it definitely overoaps but whether i specifically learned more about how to develop RQs, i'm a bit unsure...

Regarding the common session with Ursula Münster - It would have been nice to know the theme/topic/format beforehand, since the program just said "common session" and the topic of ethnography was introduced when she arrived. I asked her a question about ethnography during our introductory round, but I did not feel like she addressed it. To be honest she seemed a little unprepared. Although the conversation was nice and interesting, for me personally it was not very useful.

I suggest topics/format for sessions with externals are described in the program so it's easier for everyone to prepare.

Otherwise - really really interesting and helpful seminar. Thank you!

It was nice to receive comments of more experienced Professors and at the same time to have the opportunity to learn how to provide useful feedback to my colleagues. Yet, maybe some initial tips about prompts, constructive criticism and about how to engage with the colleague's delicate draft at the point where they are may be useful.

Many thanks for your feedback!
