Action plan for Equality, Diversity, and Inclusion at the Department of Psychology 2022-2025

For the University of Oslo, equality and diversity represent justice, democracy, representation, and quality. Employees and students should have equal opportunities to participate in and influence the university community. Diversity may refer to a range of factors such as gender, ethnicity, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation, socio-economic background, age, religion, and different academic perspectives.

The Department of Psychology should recruit students and employees who reflect the breadth of diversity in society. Discrimination or harassment based on gender, age, disability, ethnicity, religion, or sexual orientation will not be tolerated.

Diversity, equality, gender balance, and inclusion are managerial responsibilities that should be at the forefront of the department's agenda. Managerial responsibilities include, among other things, ensuring that diversity and equality perspectives are followed up in recruitment, personnel follow-up, work environment, and organizational development.

Overall goal of the action plan The Department of Psychology should actively work for equality and parity, ensure equal opportunities and rights, and prevent discrimination.

The action plan defines measures, shows responsibilities, and provides timelines.

| The professional education program should ensure that all students  acquire competence and attitudes during their studies that form the  basis for providing equitable services to all groups in society.  Additionally, it is important for the profession itself to have good  representativeness and, to some extent, reflect the diversity in the  population | Head of  Education,  Program Council | Ongoing |
| In order to improve gender balance in the professional education  program, an additional point was introduced for male applicants in  the quota for first-time examination certificate holders in the fall of  2019. In the fall of 2021, the Ministry of Education and Research  approved extending the scheme to also apply to the regular  applicant quota. The scheme will then be evaluated and, if necessary,  seek to continue. | Department Head,  Head of  Education | After the  admissions for  $2023 / 2024$ |
